

CREATIVE BRIEF

Find the truth. Point the message. Define the action.

Brand Challenge

Saxbys is a café run by and for students, designed to provide real-world leadership and career experience. As it expands to new campus locations, awareness of this student-driven model remains low, causing it to be perceived as just another coffee option on campus. This proposes an opportunity to differentiate itself through its student-driven identity and model.

Objective(s)

Increase awareness among students at newly launched campus locations that Saxbys is entirely student-led and operated through a 25% increase in social media engagement and a 25% rise in first-time purchases within three months of the campaign's launch.

- Think: Saxbys isn't just a coffee shop, it's built and led by students like me.
- Feel: Inspired to support something created for and by students.
- Do: Make Saxbys my go-to campus cafe.

Target Audience

- Demographics: College students ages 18–24 from diverse backgrounds. Most have limited disposable income and rely on parental support or part-time work.
- Geographics: Live on or near campus. Daily life centers around campus hubs and academic buildings. Walkability and proximity strongly influence spending.
- Psychographics: Use cafés as low-pressure “third spaces” where they can reset between responsibilities. They shape their choices based on mood, peers, and social media. They value convenience, ease, and experiences that support both their present needs and future goals.
- Purchase Behavior: Purchases align with class schedules and stress periods. Highly price-sensitive but willing to indulge affordably. Rely on mobile ordering, digital payments, and loyalty programs. Limited-time and student-specific offers drive repeat visits.

Human Insight

When students see themselves reflected in their peers, even routine coffee runs become meaningful moments of community.

Key Message

At Saxbys, community comes with your coffee.

Reasons To Believe (RTB's)

- Student Leadership: Saxbys cafés are led by students in official role: like Student CEOs, so students aren't just employees, they're the leaders shaping the café experience. (saxbyscoffee.com)
- Student-led Campus Initiatives: Student CEOs are expected to build campus partnerships and community outreach, which means “community” isn't just a tagline; it's part of the job. Saxbys has brought student initiatives like dine-and-donate events to fund scholarships and sustainability initiatives to college campuses. (BU Today)
- Measurable Impact: The Experiential Learning Platform has real-world outcomes. The Educational Advisory Board reports that Saxbys has successfully employed 500 students, which indicates that the student-run model creates real, impactful experience. (eab.com)
